	Why are you saying carbon trees are different to other trees.What we use our trees for is our business. We have healthy trees that are 132 years old.Are you going to tell us we have to cut them down because they have been in the ground to long?.We will use them for carbon offsets which is none of your business.Next thing you will be telling us what breed of sheep and cattle we can farm. Lets stick to the science and the facts instead of getting involved in emotion and ill informed politics, I pay $70,000.00 in rates to the same people that are looking at ways to reduce our earning capacity.. Someone has to pay the bills.Make it easier not harder.

Hello Rachael

I think this is best summed up by the word deemed that you have used. Why do the people that we employ think they have to keep regulating and put obstacles in our way. We are paying rates so you can keep restricting our earning capacity, add extra costs and then put our rates up.

Trees are Trees and I will not be telling anyone what I do with my trees regarding carbon as it my business.

There are already discussions in the District about refusing to pay any more rate increases because people now think The Council is using our money to restrict our ability to remain profitable.

You should be taking advice from people that pay rates and still have a profitable business and live in the district. I want to see all reference to carbon farming taken out of the plan as it makes no sense. You will never know what income people are getting from their trees and it should remain that way.

David Douglas.

Hi David,

I thought it best to respond to your concerns that you may have to cut down existing trees - there are no parts of the Draft District Plan that require existing trees to be cut down.

Regarding carbon forestry, the Plan only addresses and manages new carbon forestry plantings that are deemed to be carbon forestry as per the definition in the Draft District Plan.
